Indelible Parenting

Parenting is not for the faint of heart. We begin to figure that out when our kids are younger, but the truth is driven home with force during adolescence. No one denies that parenting is hard work, but despite the difficulty, God sees it as a blessing. He says children are a reward and compares to them arrows in the quiver of a warrior. Indelible Parenting shares how parents can make indelible impact as they pass godly legacies to their children.

We challenge parents to create a culture in their homes that instills values into the lives of their teenagers. By doing so, they can make an indelible spiritual impressions on the lives of their teens.
